Shabbat Certification

We hereby certify that the Standard and Autoadjust models of the Sleepcube CPAP
manufactured by the American company DeVilbiss, and sold by Orcamed in Israel can be used on the Jewish Sabbath and Holidays
according to the following stipulations:

1. The Standard model, or the Autoadjust model running in the standard mode, are preferred for use on Shabbat or Holidays. If not using the autoadjust mode causes one discomfort, then this mode can be used.
2. All settings (including turning the machine on when it runs in the standard mode) must be made before the beginning of Shabbat.
3. If one desires to use the device with water, the water must be put in the device before the beginning of Shabbat and cannot be added during Shabbat.
4. The machine must be run on a Shabbat timer which was set before the beginning of Shabbat
5. The digital display must be covered so that one cannot read it.

With Blessings for a restful and healthy Shabbat,

Rabbi Yisrael Rozen, eng.
Dean, The Zomet Institute
